Christmas Whiteboard Decorating

By MMCRU Communications

This week the MMCRU High School spent time with their homeroom classes to decorate whiteboards for Christmas. They were able to come up with different kinds of designs and spent all of their Royal Time on Friday to decorate. Some classes even used Monday to finish their boards. Some of our favorite whiteboards were Mr. Wimmer's, Mrs. Letsche's, Ms. Roberts', Mr. Long's, and Mrs. Bottjen's. They all look great and the students took a lot of time to get them done. This is a fun tradition that teachers are able to do with their students.

Madison Lowden is a sophomore at MMCRU High School. Her daily routine begins with waking up at 6:00, taking her animals outside, and making sure everyone in her house is awake. After she gets ready for her day, she takes off for school. Lowden's school day consists of going to periods 1-5, Lunch, 6-8, and Royal Time. For lunch, Lowden usually eats at school. Lowden participates in Basketball Cheerleading, and practices are held before school a few times a week. Lowden's evening routine includes taking her dogs out and feeding them, doing house chores, helping make dinner, helping her siblings get ready for bed, and then finally going to bed herself.

FCCLA Secret Santa

By MMCRU Communications

Every year FCCLA has a secret santa event. All of the members draw a name that determines who they are a "Secret Santa" for. They are able to look at a Google Document to see the different items that people are asking for. There is a $10 limit, but sometimes students go above this amount. This is a great way to get students involved and able to celebrate the holiday of Christmas.
